Millions Reported Homeless When Rising Waters Engulf Villages

SURVIVORS SEEK REFUGE

Tens of Thousands of Hamlets and Towns Said to Have Been Wiped Out

By Associated Press

Shanghai—Millions have been rendered homeless and at least 50,000 persons have been drowned in devastating floods which are sweeping widespread areas of China, submerging tens of thousands of villages. Thousands of refugees are pouring into Peking. It is impossible to get even an approximate estimate of fatalities but 50,000 is said to be a conservative estimate.

Unusually devastating floods with accompanying widespread destruction of property have been reported from various sections of China during the last few weeks. Late in July there were serious inundations in the provinces of Chihli and Hunan. On Saturday further floods were reported from Kwangsi and Sinkiang but it was reported that the loss of life had been up to that time comparatively small.

AMERICAN FLIERS AID ITALIAN ACE

By Associated Press

Indian Harbor, Labrador—A wireless message from Lieutenant Clayton Bissell of the Army Air Service aboard the U. S. S. Milwaukee in Greenland waters, directs that preparations be made here for the coming of Lieutenant Locatelli, the Italian flier, who is attempting to cross the Atlantic in the wake of the American Army aviators.

The message authorizes the local fishing factor, George C. Herrett, to turn over to Lieutenant Locatelli upon his arrival, 200 gallons of gasoline and 20 gallons of oil. One of the mooring places prepared in the harbor for the American fliers also is to be left intact for the Italian.

Stromness, Orkney Islands—Locatelli, the Italian aviator, left here shortly after 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in continuance of his trans-Atlantic flight in the wake of the American Army aviators.

After being out less than an hour Lieutenant Locatelli returned to Stromness. He had found the fog conditions such as to make it inadvisable to continue.

Madison—Max Wittke, 50, musician, and Mrs. Thomas George, Madison, and Dorothy Sutherland, Milwaukee, are in a Water-town hospital as result of an automobile accident near Waterloo Tuesday night. The three were driving from Milwaukee to Madison when their car skidded into a ditch and turned over three times. Wittke died while being taken to Watertown.

TORNADO DUMPS PIANO IN WOODS WITHOUT HARM

By Associated Press

Birchwood—Taking a piano from one of the first farm houses to be torn away in the tornado which swept a path in Chippewa county, north of Bloomer, carrying it a half mile into a patch of timber and then placing it right side up was one of the freak stunts performed by the wind. The piano was slightly damaged. On the same farm a heavy wagon was broken to bits, growing crops were cut close to the ground as if harvested, and the grain was shaken from the straw.

MOROCCO REBELS GAINING GROUND

By Associated Press

Madrid—The military directorate Wednesday issued a communique saying that the news from Morocco was not satisfactory, that the enemy natives had surrounded another position in the line and that the Spanish troops needed reinforcements.

Heavy fighting in both Spanish and French Morocco was reported from Mellilla Tuesday, the messages from the interior indicating that the Spanish troops were holding their own but that the rebels had broken through the French front between Fez and Taza, after defeating and routing the French troops at Ouargla.

ILLINOIS LABOR BODY APPROVES BACKING OF BOB

Executive Board Declares Approval of Parent Body's Support for LaFollette

By Associated Press

Chicago—The executive board of the Illinois State Federation of Labor in session here adopted a resolution concurring in the endorsement by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor of the LaFollette and Wheeler candidacies for president and vice president.

The resolution also urged that the federation uphold its claim to leadership as representative of labor and mapped out a program of campaign effort. It declared that while the American and State Federations would cooperate with other groups they were not to "surrender leadership" and announced that "information relative to the voting records of candidates for congress seeking reelection is being prepared at the American Federation of Labor national headquarters and will be available at the state headquarters in the very near future."

Similar information will be compiled by the state federation relative to legislative records, the board announced. As was expected, the board urged the reelection of Len Small, Republican, as governor.

The resolution made it clear that the board construed its "wholehearted support of the 'independent political movement' for LaFollette and Wheeler as by no means committing it nor federation members joining in it, to any third party movement. The board pointed out that LaFollette and Wheeler "have no party machinery on a large scale" and advised city central bodies throughout the state to call for a great number of volunteers for election day service.

ICE AGAIN STOPS WORLD CIRCLERS

Disquieting Reports from Angmagssalik Delay American Aces at Reykjavik

By Associated Press

Reykjavik, Iceland—After plans had been completed here for the American Army world fliers to hop off for Greenland Thursday, weather permitting, a disquieting report Wednesday from Naval Flight Commander Bruce C. Leighton, on board the cruiser Raleigh off the Greenland coast, caused a sudden change in the schedule.

Rear Admiral Thomas P. Magruder at once called a conference with Lieutenant Lowell H. Smith, the flight commander, and Major Clarence E. Cumrine of the Army Air Service on board the cruiser Richmond.

Reports received from Angmagssalik after a reconnaissance from the Raleigh stated that the harbor was too small and too nearly filled with floating ice to make it a suitable or safe landing place for the fliers and that it would be impracticable for them to hop off from it with a load. It is probable that a new landing place would be selected.

EQUITY SOCIETY LIQUIDATES DEBT

Madison—Liquidation of the $32,000 debt which has faced the organization for some time and incorporation, were major acts undertaken by the executive committee of the Wisconsin Society of Equity in session here Wednesday. The committee also laid plans for an extensive membership campaign before the annual convention in December.

Payment of the debt of the society was made possible by contributions of organization members. It is stated, Milwaukee concerns hold the largest part of the notes. The organization also will inaugurate an active movement with cooperative organizations of the state, it was announced. All of the plans were outlined in an effort to place the organization on the same basis held several years ago.

SEVERSON COMES OUT IN SUPPORT OF BLAINE RIVAL

Wisconsin Senator Announces He Will Back Comings Against Governor

By Associated Press

Milwaukee—Senator Herman Severson in a statement made public Wednesday declared he will support the campaign of Lieutenant Governor Comings, who is a candidate for governor. "A house cleaning is in order and to accomplish this, I shall vote for Comings," the statement declared.

In retreating the reasons for this announcement Senator Severson reviewed the fight during the last session of the legislature in which he attempted to institute an investigation, according to his statement, "when charges of padded accounts and corruption were made until it became a state scandal. To save the good name of the state and to fix the blame I introduced a resolution in the senate to cause an investigation."

"Governor Blaine, using all his prestige and influence, succeeded in defeating its passage by one vote. Another resolution to the same effect was introduced in the assembly but was withdrawn before roll call due to the activities of the friends of the governor. While Senator LaFollette at Washington is tearing the lid off Teapot Dome and exposing its rotting contents, Governor Blaine in Wisconsin is fighting to keep the lid on."

The statement reviews the records of Governor Blaine's administration as to expenditures declaring: "The report shows that Governor Blaine has spent over $12,000,000 more during his term of office than any other former governor."

JAPS FLEE CITIES AS EARTH TREMBLES

Tokyo—Earthquakes described as "fairly severe" were reported in the Kobe, Osaka and Nagoya districts Wednesday. Reports from Nagoya say the water mains in that city were broken by the tremors, cutting off the water supply and flooding the streets. No casualties have been reported. The disturbances are alarming the citizenry.

Tokyo—An earthquake which shook western Honshu and Shikoku Wednesday morning forced residents to flee from their homes in several towns. In dispatches received here no casualties or material damage was reported.

NAME KELLER IN RACE AS LEGION HEAD

By Associated Press

Chippewa Falls—With the arrival of department officers and executive committee members for committee meetings to be held Wednesday prior to the opening of the convention of Wisconsin Department of the American Legion, Chippewa Falls commenced to take on real convention atmosphere.

The big influx of visitors will not commence until Wednesday evening and Thursday. The largest attendance at any convention yet held by the Wisconsin department is anticipated.

At a meeting of the executive committee to be held Wednesday afternoon a report will be received on the proposed Legion summer camp. The legislative program to be laid before the convention also will be considered. Talk among the arriving committee men and delegates indicated that there would be a hot contest for the post of state commanders. Candidates prominently mentioned are L. Hugo Keller, Appleton; Lebaron Harper, Superior; H. L. Plummer, Cadott; John G. Graham, Tomah, and John Fordyce, Butternut. However almost every district is backing its own dark horse and there will be a field of at least a dozen candidates to choose from. Caucuses to narrow down the field are slated to begin Wednesday evening.

DAVIS' PERSONALITY WINS FULL APPROVAL OF DEMOCRAT CHIEFS

Tammany Notes Implied Denunciation of Ku Klux Klan With Favor and Receives It With Applause.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1924 by the Post Pub. Co.

Clarkburg, W. Va.—John W. Davis has won his first case as presidential nominee—he has completely captivated all factions and leaders of the Democratic party.

Not even Woodrow Wilson with his first acceptance speech in 1912 stirred up the enthusiasm and emotions of the practical politicians as did Davis Monday night as he stood in a pouring rain and laid the foundations of the greatest case of his career as an advocate. He will appeal to the American jury from now on, as he himself expresses it, from early morning to late at night and "it will be no kid glove contest."

Tammany Hall had wanted Al Smith, southern and western Democrats had fought valiantly to nominate McAdoo but the congratulations which the nominee received on his speech gave the impression that there never had been a contest—all were uniting in acclaiming the new standard-bearer as having made good at the outset with them.

TAMMANY APPROVES

Tammany noted the denunciation of the Ku Klux Klan and even though the name of the organization was not specifically mentioned at this time—though it will be in later speeches—the pledge of the candidate that he will apply no religious test if elected president of the United States was received with significant applause, for this is a challenge to the Ku Klux Klan on one of its cardinal principles.

The scene at the notification ceremony was unlike any ceremony of its kind that hitherto has occurred. The candidate's neighbors and townsfolk turned out to cheer him and a conservative estimate of the size of the crowd would be about 25,000. But with the radio broadcasting the speech everywhere it was no serious injury to the ceremony that it began to rain bucketfuls. The nominee never altered the infection of his voice hurried his delivery. He knew he was speaking to a larger audience of millions which were not fingering uncomfortably in the rain.

All the crowd heard Senator Thomas Walsh's speech but it rained just as Mr. Davis began. It is an interesting coincidence that in 1912 after an unbroken string of fair days, Woodrow Wilson encountered his first rainstorm of the campaign in Clarkburg and spoke just the same to the assembled West Virginians.

SPEECH IS IMPORTANT

Speeches of notification are important, of course, as interpretations of the national platforms and as the opening gun in a campaign but they are of greater importance to the party when the leaders really want to see how a candidate will handle himself on the stump. They want to be inspired to go back home and fight for their nominee. The choice of the convention is not always well known to the rank and file. John Davis enters the Democratic lists almost as unknown to the leaders as was Woodrow Wilson in 1912. Their eyes are turned critically toward the nominee—hey want to see how he will measure up in a fight. The Democrats who came to Clarkburg went away singing the praises of their nominee—they are wondering even now how by accident they happened to pick as brilliant a speaker and as cogent an advocate. So the first case within the Democratic party is a victory for the Davis personality and intellect. From now on with a united party behind him, there will be no real fight effort made by the Democrats along the lines laid down by the candidate in his notification speech.

THOUSANDS OF FARMERS HERE TO ATTEND PICNIC

Farmers from every nook and corner of Outagamie county and from all the adjoining counties, are in Appleton today to attend the first annual Farm Union festival at Pierce park. It is believed that at least 10,000 people will be in the park by evening.

Farmers started arriving in the city as early as 8 o'clock and by 10 o'clock Coliseum avenue was lined from end to end with people waiting to see the highly-advertised farmer parade. The big procession, much more than a mile long, started shortly before 11 o'clock at Lawrence college and broke up near the west end of Coliseum avenue. Music was furnished by the 12th Field artillery band and the Seymour band, the former heading the procession.

The big feature of the parade was the farmer floats, all prepared by farmers organizations. There were 25 to 30 decorated trucks and wagons, many of them illustrating some phase of farm life or activity. Following the floats were representatives of 29 farmer organizations, possibly 1,200 men in all, marching on foot. The Seymour band ended the procession.

During the afternoon there will be a brief program in which representatives of farmer organizations will be given three minutes each to explain the purposes of their societies. No other program is prepared.

Hundreds of people are crowding about the "Congress of Wonders" which is a collection of animal freaks, many of them taken from Outagamie county farms.

The gathering at Pierce park is an enormous picnic. Most of the farmers took basket lunches with them and are now in the park waiting to be served by luncheon parties. It is estimated that 2,500 automobiles are in the park and on streets leading to it.

GIRL AIDS FIANCE HIDE BODY OF RIVAL WHOM HE MURDERED

Nineteen Year Old Sweetheart of Slayer Watched Crime, Alleged Confession

By Associated Press

Benton Harbor, Mich.—Florence McKinney, 19-year old sweetheart of Earl Zupke, confessed murderer of Cozy May Raber, has confessed that she witnessed the killing of her rival for Zupke's affections, and helped hide the body, according to Sheriff George Bridgeman Zupke and the girl occupied adjoining cells in the county jail Wednesday.

Zupke, the sheriff said, broke down on Tuesday night and confessed that he choked Miss Raber, his former sweetheart, when she refused to release him from a promise to marry her. He told the sheriff that he lured her into Benton Harbor on a promise to marry her but instead, drove her into the country and choked her to death.

About an hour after he had confessed, the sheriff stated, Miss McKinney came into his office and voluntarily admitted that she was with Zupke when the crime was committed. She said that Zupke came to her house with Miss Raber in his car last Wednesday evening and that the three of them drove to the desolate spot where the slain woman's body was found last Sunday.

After Zupke had choked Miss Raber for some time and it was discovered that she was dead, Miss McKinney said she helped him hide the body.

The murdered woman was soon to have become another. She had been Zupke's fiancée and had recently sworn out a warrant against him, asking that officers withhold his service until she could make a final effort to compel Zupke to marry her.

CHICAGO NEUROLOGIST SEES NOTHING UNUSUAL IN BEDTIME PHANTASIES

EXCITEMENT WAS MOTIVE

Loeb and Leopold Sit With Stolid Faces Staring at Witnesses and Talking

Chicago—Dr. Hugh T. Patrick, Chicago neurologist was on the stand again Wednesday to testify in furtherance of the state's effort to have Judge John R. Caverly sentence Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb to the death penalty rather than prison terms for kidnapping and murdering young Robert Franks.

Dr. Patrick Tuesday afternoon asserted his conviction that Loeb was sane, but further testimony by him was cut off when the defense objected to a hypothetical question aimed at a further analysis of Loeb.

Dr. Patrick reaffirmed his conclusion that Loeb was sane in reply to the hypothetical question asked by John Seabare, assistant attorney.

"Aside from the commission of the crime, I see no evidences of mental disease," replied Dr. Patrick.

BOTH ARE NORMAL

Three other long hypothetical questions involving the various idiosyncrasies of Loeb's personality and some unusual physical characteristics brought the same response.

"I found nothing in my examination nor in printed reports to lead me to a diagnosis of mental disease," said the doctor.

Another hypothetical question as to a mark of Loeb's intellectual qualities and another as to a man of Loeb's impulsiveness brought the same replies that they were attributes of normal people.

"They are perfectly normal reactions," said Dr. Patrick. "Every one at times is more or less depressed."

"I apprehend that there is no one who does not have phantasies regarding the thing he is interested in. 'Air castles in Spain' is the more common term. It is a highly normal procedure. Some persons indulge in it more than others. This thing of having phantasies for 30 minutes before going to sleep is not a pathological condition at all."

Dr. Patrick with a humorous sparkle in his eyes, remarked "right before last I had a phantasy of appearing on the witness stand, and of the questions that might be asked me."

"Phantasies naturally take the line of the mental attitude of the individual," Dr. Patrick testified.

"If a man has certain abilities his mind naturally follows subjects along that line. If scientific, he may have phantasies regarding a scientific discovery."

"I saw nothing in my contact with the gentlemen," said Dr. Patrick, in reference to Leopold, whom he had studied soon after arrest for murdering the Franks boy, "to lead me to suppose he had any mental disease."

SLAYERS ARE UNMOVED

Loeb and Leopold sat with stolid, unchanging faces as they heard the witness proclaim them sane. Leopold rested his elbows on a chair arm and cushioned his chin with his hand. Loeb's hands in his lap, stared at the witnesses. Occasionally as has been their habit throughout the nineteen days of the hearing, the youths had whispered conversations.

"Leopold's statement of a feeling of athletic inferiority was perfectly natural," Dr. Patrick said, "and could not be termed an inferiority complex because Leopold actually was inferior in athletics."

The state sought to have Dr. Patrick challenge certain sections of the "Bowman-Hubert" report used by the defense attorneys as a basis for their conclusions that Leopold and Loeb are mentally sick. Dr. Patrick said that he did not want to undertake offhand challenging any statements in that report, and that he wished to see it.

Dr. Patrick said that in an interview with the state's attorney, he had in reply to a question as to the motive, "God, I don't know." Previously, however, testified Dr. Patrick, Loeb had said in effect that it was for the thrill the experience and the money.

"Leopold stated first that he thought he did it because Dick wanted it done," said Dr. Patrick. "I asked him whether it was in a Russian manner which was spent. The ransom was divided fifty-fifty, the boys told me."

"Ransom had something to do with it," declared Dr. Patrick. "That is explained by the way they had planned to dispose of it and the arrangements they had made to hide it and how it was to be spent. The ransom was divided fifty-fifty, the boys told me."

THOUSANDS OF FARMERS HERE TO ATTEND PICNIC

Farmers from every nook and corner of Outagamie county and from all the adjoining counties, are in Appleton today to attend the first annual Farm Union festival at Pierce park. It is believed that at least 10,000 people will be in the park by evening.

Farmers started arriving in the city as early as 8 o'clock and by 10 o'clock Coliseum avenue was lined from end to end with people waiting to see the highly-advertised farmer parade. The big procession, much more than a mile long, started shortly before 11 o'clock at Lawrence college and broke up near the west end of Coliseum avenue. Music was furnished by the 12th Field artillery band and the Seymour band, the former heading the procession.

The big feature of the parade was the farmer floats, all prepared by farmers organizations. There were 25 to 30 decorated trucks and wagons, many of them illustrating some phase of farm life or activity. Following the floats were representatives of 29 farmer organizations, possibly 1,200 men in all, marching on foot. The Seymour band ended the procession.

During the afternoon there will be a brief program in which representatives of farmer organizations will be given three minutes each to explain the purposes of their societies. No other program is prepared.

Hundreds of people are crowding about the "Congress of Wonders" which is a collection of animal freaks, many of them taken from Outagamie county farms.

The gathering at Pierce park is an enormous picnic. Most of the farmers took basket lunches with them and are now in the park waiting to be served by luncheon parties. It is estimated that 2,500 automobiles are in the park and on streets leading to it.

EXPECT 500 HERE TO FORM CLUB TO BOOST WISCONSIN

Milwaukee Hopes to Send Its Delegation on Special Train

At least 500 reservations for the luncheon which will start the meeting for organization of the Greater Wisconsin association here on Thursday, are expected by 6 o'clock tonight and the arrangements committee is preparing for at least 200 additional visitors at the business session which will follow the luncheon. The local committee has completed its work and is ready for the arrival of Wisconsin businessmen who expect to form an organization which will further the interests of the state.

The luncheon and business session will be held in the Conway hotel, starting at noon. The morning will be devoted to committee meetings to prepare recommendations which will be submitted at the afternoon session. It is planned to elect directors of the association after organization is completed and the directors probably will elect state officers immediately after the afternoon meeting.

Efforts still were being made in Milwaukee on Wednesday to obtain a special train to bring the Cream city delegation to Appleton. In addition to those coming by train, a number of Milwaukeeans will drive to Appleton by automobile.

Madison will send quite a number of businessmen and word has been received that Fond du Lac, Oshkosh and Green Bay will be well represented. Delegates also are expected from Superior, LaCrosse, Wausau, Eau Claire and most of the other larger cities in the state.

G. O. P. MOBILIZES TO HEAR COOLIDGE

Party Leaders Assemble at Washington to Take Part in Notification

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — Republican leaders from all parts of the country assembled here Wednesday for the exercises Thursday night at which President Coolidge will be formally notified of his nomination by the Cleveland convention.

The address of the president accepting the nomination is expected by the party leaders to set forth merely the principles on which the Republican campaign will be based, since it was written before John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee, delivered his corresponding address at Clarksburg, W. Va., and could not therefore be regarded as a direct reply to the latter's statements.

The president had a light program Wednesday to permit him to spend some time in preparation for delivery of his address.

Car Salesman's Customer Gets 66 Miles an Hour Out of Demonstrator

Edward Ramm of New London was demonstrating the efficiency of an automobile to a prospective customer Tuesday, but the most interested spectator was Allen Kaufman, county motorcycle officer. Ramm admits, however, the demonstration was by no means staged for the motorcycle's benefit.

He gave the customer—a New London manufacturer—the steering wheel, and forthwith the customer endeavored to test out the car for speed. He was turning up the concrete on the Hortonville rd at a mile a minute clip. Kaufman's speedometer registered 66 miles an hour.

Ramm submitted to arrest in place of the customer, since he considered it discourteous to the customer to permit him to pay the fine. But denying actual guilt, Ramm entered a plea of nolo contendere and paid the $10 fine. The case was heard in municipal court Wednesday morning by Judge Fred V. Heinemann, who is acting municipal judge.

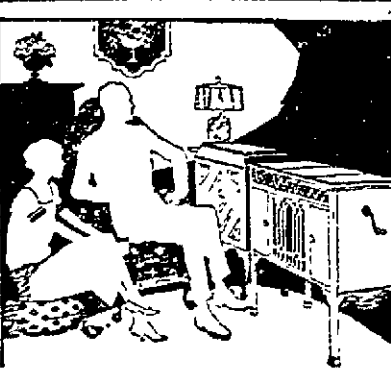

Twenty-eight miles an hour was the speed recorded by Joseph Bayer, Appleton motorcycle, against Roy McCallin, 185 Minor st., who was arrested on Colfax-ave. between Drew and Lavoie sts. Tuesday. He paid a fine of $10 and costs upon an order of Judge Heinemann.

Won't Need Much Ice To Fill Houses Next Winter

Ice men are not concerned much this year over the possibility of a warm winter after this cold summer. Their icehouses, usually nearly empty at this season of the year, contain nearly as much ice as when summer starts—cream parlors, meat markets and stores are using much less ice this year than during the usual summer. There have been a few warm days but the temperature did not remain long enough for the heat to penetrate into the refrigerators.

ed and the ice cut next winter will be materially less than in past winters according to W. C. Jacobson of the Lutz Ice Co.

Two ice storage houses, usually emptied by this season of the year, have not been touched thus far, according to ice company officials. The usual amount of ice was packed during the winter but the demand this summer was vastly less than during the hot season of other years.

Owners of large refrigerators in ice

There has been little reduction in the amount of ice delivered to private homes, inasmuch as ice service is furnished on contract, but a few families that used ice in other years are getting along without it this summer.

Our cost of operation is about the same whether the demand for ice is heavy or light and consequently there is little prospect of a decrease in ice prices because we have an over supply," Mr. Jacobson said. "We need as many men to deliver ice this year as a year ago and our overhead expense is as great as during a normal season."

DENIES SPEEDING; COP SAYS HE HIT 54 MILES AN HOUR

The first jury trial of the season on a speeding charge may result in the case of Roland Blank, New London, who was arrested Monday in Hortonville by Allen Kaufman, county motorcycle officer.

Kaufman asserted that the driver was hitting a speed of 51 miles an hour, but Blank aside from denying the rate of speed, maintained he was not speeding at all. He entered a plea of not guilty before Judge Fred V. Heinemann, acting municipal judge, and his case was adjourned until Thursday.

A trial by a jury of six men in the justice branch of municipal court may be asked for.

The Misses Gladys Strutz and Genevieve and Martha Jentz were among the Appleton people who attended Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey's circus at Oshkosh Tuesday.

HUGE CROWD HEARS 3RD BAND CONCERT

The concert given by the One Hundred and Twentieth Field Artillery band at Fourth ward school grounds Tuesday evening was attended by one of the largest crowds of the series. The grounds were filled with people from all parts of the city, many from the north side driving over in their automobiles. There was very little noise to interfere with hearing the music and the program was carried out as arranged. Wednesday the band furnished music for the farm union festival.

GOOD YEAR BALLOON TIRES

The Real Balloon Tire Discovery---Supertwist

The outstanding feature of Goodyear Balloon Tires is SUPERTWIST, the remarkable new cord perfected by Goodyear. Tests made with this enduring new material showed that a tire carcass made of SUPERTWIST delivered more than 100% greater service than a carcass made of an equal number of plies of standard cord. SUPERTWIST is used only by Goodyear, and is built into Goodyear balloon tires of both kinds — to fit new small diameter wheels, and to fit the wheels now on your car.

Come in anytime, day or night, and ride on balloons. We have three cars ready to give you that wonderful thrill of balloon cushioning.

COUNTY IS MAKING PROGRESS ON ROADS IN SPITE OF RAIN

Hard to Haul Road Building Material Over Water- Soaked Highways

A branch of public service seriously affected by the frequent rains this summer is the county highway department. Often it was necessary for highway crews to shift their work from a soft road to a hard surface road in order to keep in operation. But the changing about still delayed the work, according to A. G. Brusewitz, county highway commissioner.

A gravel hauling job for improvement of the new state trunk highway 55 in Freedom and Osborn had to be abandoned temporarily on account of the soft roads. This highway was County Trunk line C, and extends from Kaukauna to Seymour and then reaches out west to connect with state highway 47.

In spite of the delays, considerable work has been completed by the department. In addition to the four miles of widened concrete on highway 15 between Kaukauna and Brownsville, about three-fourths of a mile of concrete has been laid on County highway E in Freedom. The entire job will require two miles of pavement this year.

DRIVE ON HARD ROADS
Highway crews have started work on surfacing County highway G in Cicero, but the material is being hauled on the hard surfaced road, highway 47. About one-fourth of a mile has been surfaced with crushed stone.

About three-fourths of a mile of road in Oneida has been macadamized. This is a county patrolled road. On County highway C east of Bailey's Corners, shoulders have been improved on the two and a half miles of concrete laid last year.

A short stretch of road in Combined Locks and a two and a half mile stretch in the city of Seymour have been macadamized. The department recently finished surfacing two miles of road on County highway E in Oneida with crushed stone, and surfacing of a stretch on B, or the New London-Bear Creek rd., was begun Monday morning.

Two miles of the Hollandtown rd in Buchanan has been graded, and a similar stretch on County E has been macadamized. One and three fourth miles of J has been graded in Oneida, also three miles on S, or the highway 15 detour in Kaukauna, two miles on S west of Freedom, two miles on G in Cicero, two miles on G in Maine and one mile on B in Maine.

Up To City Dads To Pick School Names

Finding it a difficult task to select appropriate names for the east and west end junior high schools, the Appleton board of public works has decided to ask the common council to do the christening. A large number of suggestions were received by the board, showing that public sentiment seems to be divided on whether the schools shall take names of presidents or names of local persons prominently identified with school work here. The board turned the matter over to the council Monday, and the naming contest may be resumed at the next meeting, Aug. 20.

INVITE MARKSMEN TO OSHKOSH GUN CLUB SHOOT

RURAL TEACHERS MEET HERE AUG. 29

Rural and state graded school teachers from all parts of the county will come to Appleton the end of this month to attend the fall teachers institute which will be held in the renovated circuit court room of the courthouse Friday and Saturday, Aug. 29 and 30. Attendance at this conference is obligatory, but teachers are also invited to attend the county school boards convention which will be held in Lawrence Memorial chapel on the day before the institute, according to A. G. Meating, county school superintendent.

DISTRICT STATE FOR SPANISH WAR AUXILIARY

First steps in the division of the state of Wisconsin into territorial districts will be taken at a meeting of auxiliaries of Spanish American War veteran camps at Oshkosh on Aug. 20, to which auxiliaries from Appleton, Fond du Lac, Green Bay, Ripon and Sheboygan have been invited. Most of the states have already been divided into districts, but the meeting in Oshkosh on Aug. 20 will be the first step of its kind to be taken by the Wisconsin organizations.

MR. DAVIS ACCEPTS

Even the Republicans will have to admit that John W. Davis, Democratic nominee, registered an effective indictment of the administration in his acceptance speech. While it is a severe denunciation of policy and betrayal of trust, it is nevertheless couched in dignified terms. Never once does the nominee descend to the level of the demagogue or the irresponsible radical.

He justly condemned the administration for what took place under Denby, Fall and Daugherty. There is no defense of that scandal and it is just and proper that the Democrats should impress its seriousness and significance upon the people. "The supreme need of the hour," said Mr. Davis, is to restore confidence of the people in their government.

His references to the "allied forces of greed and dishonesty" are good. He is quite as forceful on this subject as Mr. La Follette and yet without appealing to class hatred. We like his condemnation of the "dreamy radical and the smug conservative." They are put upon about the same basis, which is a fair rating. He is for rigid enforcement of the laws against monopoly, for high taxes upon "swollen incomes", etc., etc. They may or may not be platitudes, depending upon the party support he would receive.

Mr. Davis' bid for the labor vote is well framed, as is his reference to the farmer. He knows if he is to be elected he must have liberal support from these two elements. He, therefore, places the major emphasis of his social and political program on an improvement of the lot of both. This is good politics and it is good judgment, because labor and the farmer are entitled to first consideration. Mr. Davis' standing with them will not, however, be determined by his acceptance address, but by his personality and professions as the campaign progresses.

He certainly offers more to the farmer in theory than do the Republicans. He would remove the tariff discriminations against agriculture, he would fulfill our American obligations in the European settlement and thereby revive our foreign markets. He would have the government actively assist in the cooperative marketing movement, and would seek to give adequate transportation at reasonable rates.

Mr. Davis indorses both the world court and the League of Nations. In this position he is unquestionably aligned with the moral convictions of not only progressive Americans, but of peace-loving people throughout the world. His conception of foreign policy is larger, broader and sounder than that of his opponent. He expresses vision as well as conviction. In all other respects Mr. Davis measures up to the issues of the day. It is an admirable acceptance speech in every respect. What effect it will have in the campaign is something very few can say.

THE FIRST INAUGURATION

As you walk along Wall street in New York city, you meet the Father of our Country. He stands impressively in front of the United States Subtreasury building. The site occupied by the Subtreasury building, with the imposing figure of Washington, is one of the nation's greatest treasures. There long since was the old State house in which Washington was inaugurated as the first president of the United States. Land in that part of New York is immensely valuable. The subtreasury site is estimated to be worth three to four millions of dollars. This is its material value, apart from the sentimental, or we might better say, human and spiritual appraisal. The value of the site as a national inheritance cannot be estimated.

The moving of the Federal Reserve bank from the old Subtreasury to the new building at Nassau and Liberty streets will raise a question as to the future use of this vacant government building, with the first president of the United States greeting, as it were, the past and present public. The American Defense society has begun a campaign, to prevent sale of this historic site to private interests. The federal government has given no intimation of an intention of disposing of the site. On the contrary, the purpose as far as known, is to retain the site as property of the nation. The American Defense Society takes this precautionary action in order to waken popular sentiment.

A suggestion is made that the Treasury department should establish a numismatic and philatelic museum in the Subtreasury. Specimens of all coin, currency, stamps, bonds and other forms of money and securities issued by the United States would be preserved in the museum as exhibits. Citizens of New York city may rely on the support of the citizens of all parts of the United States to have the government retain this historic site as public property. It should be done. The money it would bring is of small national moment measured against its value as a patriotic memorial.

A NEGRO FOR CONGRESS

President Coolidge has promptly and deservedly rebuked the protest of a citizen of New York state against the candidacy of a Negro for congress. The remarkable thing about the incident is not that the president should rise to the defense of the Negro's political rights, but that a citizen of the United States should have the temerity to even approach the president on the subject. The Negro has the same right to run for public office as the white man. None of the constitutional guarantees is based on race or color. Discrimination on this account is a flagrant violation of the constitution.

It is true, there has been much discrimination against the Negro in the South which is contrary to both the spirit and letter of the constitution, but it has not been with the tolerance or approval of the president. Theodore Roosevelt upheld the rights of the Negro in a memorable incident while he was president. When it comes to the constitution, the president has but one duty to perform, and that is to conform to it and support it. It is "amazing," as Mr. Coolidge well says, that any person in the United States should take a contrary view or suggest a violation of oath to the nation's chief executive.

ROOM FOR FURTHER SANITY

How long shall we continue to celebrate the Fourth of July with dangerous weapons, lights and explosives? How long shall we justify deaths and injuries by the specious contention that patriotism should be fostered? The National committee for the Prevention of Blindness notifies the nation that 200 children were blinded this year in Fourth of July celebrations. What kind of patriotism is that? Blindness is worse, in some respects, than death. If the National committee's statistics are correct, should we not change our method of celebrating the Fourth?

TODAY'S POEM

AWAY BACK THERE

WHEN you're filled with that feeling of oh me, oh my, and your mind has gone flop for the day, You might just as well let a few hours slip by while you turn from your business to play.
Crawl into a hammock and settle in ease and let your old jaw start to yawning. Just lie there, a target for any old breeze, and let the blue sky be your awning.
When all this is done and you really relax, your thinker may rest, but won't last. It shortly is working, "cause that's how it acts, and your thoughts take you back to the past.
The little old town where you played as a kid will picture itself in your mind. You'll smile as you think of the things that you did in those days that are left far behind.
There really is pleasure in memory dreams, and though you're accomplishing naught, your mind needs the tonic that's found, so it seems in the rest through the change of your thought.

WHAT TO SPEND FOR FOOD

Several months ago I published here a table showing the distribution of expenditure for food in the family of the an American professional man (who is a food expert), the family including three adults and four children. Then for comparison a similar table showing the distribution of food expenditure in 92 New York families in moderate circumstances. A middle western professional man, in whose family there are two adults on the flag end of 70, as he puts it, contributes a third table showing the distribution of food expenditure in his family. It may be interesting to compare the three tables.

	Amer.	Aver. 92	Middle
F. C. N. Y. Fam. W. Prof.
Meats, poultry and fish	12.5	33.19	8.95
Eggs	6.0	5.55	4.00
Milk	21.5	9.08	4.34
Cheese	2.5	1.12	4.40
Butter and other fats	11.0	1.13	5.00
Bread, cereals and other grain products	13.5	17.65	14.09
Sugar and molasses and syrups	3.0	3.80	14.44
Vegetables and fruits	16.5	15.15	16.91
Tea and coffee			4.44
Candy			2.32

The striking difference is that the western professors spend relatively as much for vegetables as the food chemist does for vegetables and fruits together and more than the average American urban family spends for vegetables and fruits together. The professor is not likely to suffer from a calcium (lime) shortage. Neither is he likely to suffer from acidosis on slight provocation.

The professor makes a better showing than the others in his cheese expenditure. The average American household seems shy of cheese. Most people have a very limited knowledge of cheese because they never think of trying the various kinds that are obtainable. They miss some great treats to the palate. More important than that, they miss some of the most economical food we can buy. Perhaps there are prejudices against cheese, notions that it is "hard to digest" which it isn't—or that it is "contaminating" which it isn't. If I understand music I will write a song about the number one varieties of cheese and entitle it: Somewhere the Right Cheese Is Waiting for You. Mine is Swiss. Gumme a generous slice of Swiss cheese and a generous slice of whole wheat bread and butter and brown sugar on and I can be perfectly happy. Others prefer varieties which I don't like at all. Even Limburger, which may be all right if one could only sneak up on it and catch it unawares.

Our federal government, the agriculture department I believe, lent itself to the meat packers' propaganda last year, urging the public to eat more meat for strength and all that kind of hokum. The cheese makers ought to send a delegation to Washington sometime before election and demand that placards be issued in behalf of the high nutritive value of cheese—which has it over meat by a tent so far as health, strength and vigor may be concerned. Cheese averages 2,000 calories to the pound; meat rather less than 1,000. Any kind of cheese you can eat is economical to buy, for it is 100 per cent nutriment and no waste. Meat represents a good 50 per cent waste.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

One Look and They're Doomed
I took my 10 year old daughter to a doctor to have her tonsils examined. He took a quick look into her throat and said the tonsils were very large and advised removal of the tonsils. Where could I have an examination made that would be positive proof and would determine whether her tonsils contain that certain something that is a protection to her? (Mrs. L. G. A.)

Answer—I do not know. The tonsils contain nothing of a protective value, so far as science has determined, though new fangled healers who enter by the back door are fond of ascribing fanciful functions to the tonsils. If the doctor was good enough to command your confidence in the first place he ought to be capable of forming a good opinion by just a look, about the question of removal of tonsils.

When good men and true men
And brave men get together,
What can they find to talk about?
Why, taxes, hooch and weather.

When old maids and young maids
And good wives chat a while,
What can they find to talk about?
Why clothes, more clothes and style.

Would Keep World Safe For Animals

(From My Magazine, London.)
Once upon a time the wild beast roamed free on hill and plain, in forest and in jungle; he was lord of the earth. Today he is at man's mercy; at times he is man's servant. It would have seemed natural in the early days of the world if this puny creature man had been gobbled up by a monster or mauled out of existence by a bear, but the time has come when man looks out upon the world with power to decree which animals shall remain alive.

It is practically certain that only the animals which man protects can ultimately survive. All others are being hunted, slowly but surely, out of life. The mammals, the highest order of the animal world, are rapidly declining. Flocks and herds are more numerous than they have ever been, but wild species grow less and less. The number of species now known is roughly about 3,000, a trifling number compared with the total known to have existed in ancient times. Never were reptiles or birds so numerous as now, and their tide still swells, but the mammals passed their zenith long ago.

Great classes of animals have passed away as great orders of trees and plants have passed. They grew in strength till man began his partnership with nature, but man is hunting the mammals out. It is no light thing that he has done; but we may hope the time will never come when man will blot out ever ymmammal of the wild and leave himself the one free representative of his order. Nature made the world safe for man by keeping down the tribes that give us lions and tigers and leopards and cheetahs; would it not be something to his credit if man, in his turn, made life safe for the types of life that survive today?

Radio Problem To Old Time Orator

(From The Salem, Mass. News.)

The man who tries to sway public opinion today is put up against greater requirements than formerly. Years ago many political orators would do little more than tell strings of funny stories and make flamboyant bursts of oratory.

But today there is a demand that the spellbinders come down to brass tacks. The people want practical talk.

The man who seeks to sway the people these times would better not depend too much on mere ability to use words with facile power. He needs to know his subject through and through. The old-fashioned political orator could sit down with a few standard speeches delivered by his party leaders, work them over into his own words, add some stories and compliments and make a speech that would arouse an audience to whoops of enthusiasm. That time has gone by.

The Question Box

(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing: The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medical and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)

Q. How much did Germany realize from the sale of paper marks in foreign countries at the time there was so much speculation in marks?
E. H. B.

A. Estimates have been made running as high as four billion dollars, but conservative computations indicate a total of not more than half that amount. Whatever the exact figure it is recognized that the sale of paper marks was a great aid to Germany both in meeting reparations obligations and in paying for foreign imports during the years 1919-22.

Q. How many calls do the fire departments of a city like Washington answer in a day?
G. W. H.

A. The Chief Fire Engineer's office says that the average number of runs made by fire engine companies is eight a day. This would probably prove true of other cities of this size.

Q. Has railroad consolidation such as has been proposed here been tried in any other country?
C. O. N.

A. Under an act passed in 1921 the 120 railway systems of England have been consolidated into four large geographical systems, with a total mileage of 19,510 miles and an aggregate capitalization of about $83 million pounds.

Q. Did Jamar Whitcomb Riley ever write under a pseudonym?
D. J. W.

A. Riley at one time used the pen name "Benjamin F. Johnson."

Q. Can the wife of a veteran who deserted ever receive any portion of his adjusted compensation?
C. T. W.

A. The wife can only obtain the veteran's adjusted compensation in the event of his death.

Q. When should an arbor vitae hedge be trimmed?
D. P. B.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that the proper time is soon after the hedge begins growth in the spring.

Q. What is the rank of Methodist bishops?
L. S. P.

A. Methodist bishops are the highest prelates in the Methodist Church of America. It is their duty to preside over the Methodist conferences held once a year in the different districts. One layman from each Methodist church in that district attends these conferences. There are 45 Methodist bishops in the United States.

Q. When was ironstone china first made?
M. F. C.

A. It was made in England in the 15th century.

Q. Was there really a gate in Jerusalem known as "The Eye of the Needle?"
T. C. L.

A. It is a fact that there is in the wall of Jerusalem a small gateway built for the use of pedestrians and known by a name which is translated as "The Needle's Eye." Through this gate it is quite possible for a small under-nourished camel, divested of all its equipment, harness, etc., by kneeling to work its way, though not without difficulty. The gate is still in existence.

Q. Are trout native to the waters of Louisiana?
E. P.

A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that trout are not found in the waters of Louisiana as the water is too warm. Trout require water of a temperature of 50 or below.

Q. Why can the roar of the sea be heard in a sea shell?
F. P.

A. The sound that is heard when a sea shell is placed against the ear are really not the sound of the ocean. They are air waves or sounds made by air waves. A shell is so constructed that it forms a natural sounding box and is an almost perfect resonator, which picks up sounds and magnifies them.

Q. What was Pastor Russell's real name?
A. Charles Tazewell Russell, who died in 1916, was known as "Pastor Russell."

Q. Was any part of the United States ever called "New Sweden"?
A. New Sweden was an early name for the region between New York and Virginia.

SPUDS AND CABBAGE ROTTING IN GROUND

Frequent Rains Cause Heavy Loss to Outagamie-co Farmers

Frequent rains during the last two weeks have a decidedly discouraging effect upon some crops in the county, such as cabbage and potatoes. Both are beginning to rot where land is low. Some farmers say wet weather has ruined about 25 per cent of the cabbage crop. This will be offset in some large degree by the fact that the cabbage acreage is unusually large this year. On some farms half of the cabbage crop is ruined. It is said.

A farmer pulling out cabbage by the roots found only the main root, about the size of a pencil, and all the smaller branch roots rotted off. Even the stems of some plants were decayed. Potatoes dug out of the ground were mashed to jelly. The vines look as if they were frozen. They first turn a black color and then yellow.

Wheat that has been set up in shocks on the field is growing again, the sprouts shooting up from seeds cracking inside the bundles. Grain of this type will not produce flower and can be used only for feed.

Cutting of barley was begun this week on a number of farms of this community.

STREET CAR AND MOTOR TRUCK IN COLLISION

A street car and an automobile truck were damaged in a collision at Morrison-st and College-ave at 2:45 Tuesday afternoon. A truck belonging to Greunke Brothers, contractors, and driven by Edward Knaack struck a west bound street car operated by Motorman Roy Birmingham. The automobile truck, also proceeding west on College-ave turned south on Morrison directly in front of the street car, damaging the vestibule step to some extent and also breaking off a front wheel of the truck. No one was injured.

SEN. HUBER WILL BE LABOR DAY SPEAKER

Trades and Labor Council Decides Against Having Two Speakers

Further details of plans for the Labor day celebration Sept. 1 will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Appleton Trades and Labor council Wednesday evening at its headquarters in the Woolworth-bldg. The committee in charge of obtaining speakers has received assurance from Senator Henry Huber of Stoughton, candidate for lieutenant governor and author of the Huber employment Insurance bill, that he will speak at the gathering in Pierce park. It was at first planned also to have Assemblyman George A. Nelson, Milwaukie, head of the state branch of the American Society of Equity, as one of the speakers, but Mr. Nelson has notified the committee that he will be unable to be present.

In view of the fact that there will be a number of other attractions at the labor demonstration, it was thought best to drop the plan of having two addresses.

ORDER REFERENDUM ON BOND ISSUE TO BUILD NEW BRIDGE

Council Authorizes $100,000 Bonds But Must Have Voters' Approval

Kaukauna—The regular meeting of the Kaukauna school board of Reformed Sunday school was held Monday evening in the school house. Plans were made for Rally day Sunday on Sept. 14. Carl Grimm was appointed delegate to the annual conference at the Mission House beginning Monday, Aug. 18.

Seven girls enjoyed a "stag" outing Monday evening at the M. A. C. club house. A picnic supper was served. Those who attended were Misses Helen Guilfoyle, Germaine and Enola VanLieshout, Laura and Lillian Mau, Lucille Smith and Mildred Kern.

A special meeting of the Senior Christian Endeavor society of Reformed church will be held at 7 o'clock Friday evening in the church basement for the purpose of making plans to attend the district convention in Appleton the last weekend in August. Cards are being sent to all the members and a full attendance is expected.

KROMER SIGNS TO PLAY MANITOWOC SHIPS TEAM

Kaukauna—Stormy Kromer has booked a battle for his students with the Manitowoc shipyard team, the aggregation which a few weeks ago held the locals to a no hit and no runs. The teams will meet at Manitowoc Saturday afternoon. Johnson, the man who occupied the mound for Manitowoc and who pitched such dazzling ball for nine innings, probably will again oppose the Kaukauna team. Stormy has not yet decided who will peg for his squad. He also is working to secure an exhibition tilt for Sunday afternoon.

The bonds will mature in groups of five, the first coming due in 1925 and after that five bonds will mature each succeeding year. The council adjourned until Tuesday, Aug. 19.

INVITE BOY SCOUTS TO W. C. T. U. MOTION PICTURE

Kaukauna—The Outagamie-co convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held Friday, Aug. 15 in Brookway Methodist church. Sessions will be held at 9 o'clock in the morning, 1:30 in the afternoon and 7:30 in the evening. A patriotic motion picture "Let Us Forget" will be shown at the evening session. All meetings are open to the public. A special invitation has been extended to Boy Scouts to see the picture in the evening. Collections will be taken to defray expenses.

A regular meeting of the local organization will be held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon at the public library, instead of on Friday.

TWO WEDDINGS OCCUR IN KAUKAUNA CHURCH

Kaukauna—Miss Marie Vandenberg of this city and Edward Van DenHuevel of De Pere, were married at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in St. Mary church, the Rev. Conrad Ripp officiating. The couple was attended by Miss Odella Vandenberg and Anton Derks. A reception was held at the home of the bride following the ceremony.

The wedding of Miss Geneva McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Hoolihan, and Earl Besaw, took place at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Mary church, the Rev. Conrad Ripp officiating. The couple was attended by Miss Zella Paranteau and James Hoolihan. A reception for 50 friends and relatives was held at the bride's home, 416 Sixth-st. Mr. and Mrs. Besaw left Wednesday afternoon for a two weeks' wedding trip. Upon their return they will reside on Doty-st.

BUSINESSMEN PROPOSE TO HOLD PAVEMENT DANCE

Kaukauna—A committee of local businessmen has made arrangements for a pavement dance to be held Saturday evening on the new pavement on Wisconsin-ave. A band of 13 pieces will furnish music. Dancing will begin at 7 o'clock. Those in charge will attempt to secure permission to close off a portion of one side of the street for the dancers.

Asthma Instantly Relieved

A Guaranteed Remedy

All druggists here or every druggist in the United States, as a matter of fact, are authorized to sell Asthmador or Asthmador Cigarettes on the positive guarantee that if they do not give almost instant relief and even more, if not found absolutely the best remedy ever used for Bronchial Asthma, Difficult Breathing or the Asthmatic symptoms accompanying Hay Fever, money will be refunded by them without question.

Sufferers who have not already tried these remedies, can rely on the genuineness of this guarantee, as well as depend on its fulfillment, in view of being backed up by their own druggist, in case it should fail. The more severe, violent or obstinate the case, the more will Asthmador be appreciated and prized, after its first trial. The percentages of failure to relieve promptly are so small that the Manufacturers have no hesitancy in announcing this guarantee, and are willing, desirous and anxious to refund to the infinitely few sufferers who do not obtain relief, as neither they, nor the druggists who sold the package, want your money, if not relieved. Read the guarantee on label.

MATURITY, YOUTH MEET IN STORY BY YOUNG AUTHOR

"The Shoreless Sea" Is Not Perfect, But It Makes Splendid Reading

BY ELEANOR WING

"Tate is a sea without shore," said Swinburne, and Mollie Painter-Downes, a 16 year old English girl, seeks to prove it in "The Shoreless Sea," published recently by Putnam. She uses the specific example of three unfortunates, who find themselves in the midst of the rough sea of living where there is no turning back nor island or shore of safe haven. And she argues in a young, yet mature, vital way that makes one believe in the author's knowledge of her people. How often nowadays we doubt the veracity—or at least the completeness of a portrait, sketched in the hazy, cynical grays of the modern novelist.

This story is a tale, savoring of William Butler Yeats or of Lord Dunsany. Two youngsters meet in a wood, love each other and out of the pure joy of mystery, keep their names a secret. They are separated suddenly and grow up with no knowledge of each other's whereabouts. The girl, longing for a life of beauty, marries a man who adores her and can give her what she wants. She meets her former playmate years afterwards, discovering that he still loves her as she does him, although the boy's loyalty to the girl's husband keeps them fighting that love. They have a few months of happiness, and then their sense of loyalty wins out. The boy, wanting to take himself from the lives of the girl and her husband, throws himself on a jutting rock as he dives into the sea.

The tragedy is told simply and with dignity. Sentimentality, sensation, cynicism—these three constant factors in so many present day novels—are all absent.

And the native with which the author talks about pre-existence, gives pretty young compliments, and describes thrills resulting from simple experiences seem very good after the desperate efforts of modern fiction to avoid even an atom of triteness, although the same experiences come into nearly every human existence and are not trite, or boring when they happen.

The traces of youth in the book are not many but they are noticeable. They are positiveness, abruptness, swift transition between actions with little or no preparation or subtlety and a certain consistency in character that is rather infrequent in real people. The author is well read and the influence of Gaelic literature and folk lore is felt in various instances. Names such as Deirdre, who is the heroine of the Celts, and Guy which is a very common Irish given name, although more often spelled Gai, as well as the eerie, fantastic descriptions of Gilly's woods, give evidence of a taste for the little read Celtic literature. Miss Painter-Downes has travelled, too, and her impressions especially of Venice are vivid, and though intensely personal, are accurate and gloriously romantic.

The book is astounding in its grasp of character and its delineation of the "splendor and the pain" that are inevitable when three strong people come together in a triangle of love, friendship and loyalty.

BY MURIEL KELLY

When one reads and appreciates Richardson Wright's new book, "A Small House and Large Garden," published by Houghton Mifflin, the names of any number of others who would enjoy reading it pop into mind. Mr. Wright is editor of "House and Garden" magazine and while one has no real assurance that he is an excellent gardener, his book is every assurance that he is a charming writer.

She, who is the wife of the author, and he, who wrote the book live in a small house surrounded by a large garden. Both of them love to live there and they have a wonderful sense of humor which takes into its consideration weather, neighbors, guests' dogs and any number of other things, including uncles.

Mr. Wright's book makes living in any house and garden more enjoyable because of his point of view, and living up top of a sizeable hill, he is expected to have a broad and tolerant view. The sense of humor makes the reader have at least one or two chuckles per page, which is a pretty good chuckling average for a book filled with interesting facts about houses and gardens.

The rockery which the author describes and the sunken stone path leading up the hill (which is the downfall of guests with French heels) much to the author's secret amusement are so enthusiastically described that I suspect that many cars will be hauling home flat stones from places to the north of Green Bay, for instance. Besides royalties, the author should get a commission from seed and bulb merchants because he most certainly has encouraged many of his readers to plunge in the matter of purchases.

The chapters in the book are as short as they are diversified. One marvels that a man's humorous appreciation of living can cover so large a field of activity, but one also envies "the She," whom he mentions so often, the fun of sharing this sense of humor.

For those who know little about gardens and think that they do not care about them the book is a treat. It will lead on to the reading of more about gardens and inevitably to seed catalogs. What city dweller will not want to get out a catalog to see the illustrations of the flowers whose

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

S. WEIR MITCHELL'S METHOD

It doesn't make a particle of difference of course how a writer does his work; the only thing that counts is that he gets his work done and that he does work of high quality. The Book of Job is a great drama no matter who wrote it or how. The unknown author may have written it on clay tablets for all we know. The method of its composition has no bearing on the book's greatness.

And the same thing is true of any book produced today. Whether a writer uses a typewriter or composes in longhand, whether he uses a pen or a pencil, whether he writes with his own hand or employs a secretary or dictates into a dictaphone has no bearing on the critical estimate of his work. The quality of the work is its own vindication or condemnation.

And yet the fact remains that there is an almost morbid curiosity on the part of the public in the methods of work of writers. A large part of the contents of the literary magazines is made up of discussions of personal items about the authors, how they work, when they get up and when they go to bed, what kind of socks they wear, whether they like lamb chops better than veal, whether they are republicans or democrats.

The method of work of Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, author of the well known story of the Revolutionary War, "Hugh Wynne," "The Iron Master" and other novels of American life, may be considered to have some bearing on the quality of his work; at least it was an indication of the painstaking care he took with his fiction. Weir Mitchell is the only writer I ever read of who took the trouble to have his novels set up in type before he sent his manuscript to the publisher. He wrote his stories in longhand, then corrected them with the greatest possible care and then had them set up in type at his own expense to see what each sentence and paragraph and page would look like in its finished form. Then he would make the printed pages and make his final corrections. After these corrections had been duly made by the typesetter and the final copy had been made as perfect typographically as possible, he sent the story to the publisher where of course it once more went through the usual process of correction, where it was set up anew and proof read in the usual way.

To go to that: much trouble for the sake of typographical accuracy is very rare. As a contrast, the case is recalled of a very popular American novelist a few years ago who became involved in a lawsuit with a widely read American magazine because the editors had changed the last chapter of his story. He sued the magazine for damages and the editors retaliated by printing his last chapter just as he had sent it to them, giving some facsimile pages. The manuscript was in pencil it looked as if it had been written by one who was walking in his sleep the grammar was atrocious and the spelling would have made an eight year old boy ashamed of himself. It is very natural for a writer who has "made a hit" to assume that it is beneath him to bother about such little things as the appearance of his manuscript. But often the real writers, the men of authentic genius, take the greatest pains with their manuscripts, going over them again and again, working at them with painful care and sparing no effort to make them as nearly perfect as possible. While few go to the length S. Weir Mitchell did, many of the very greatest writers do not disdain to give their work half a dozen revisions.

And usually the greatest writers are willing to take advice from publishers and editors in the matter of making changes, although there are some of the greatest who do not allow the slightest change. Galsworthy belongs to the latter class. His manuscripts must be printed exactly as written.

BOOKS AND BOOK MEN

"Ancient Fires," by Miss I. A. R. Wylie, recently published by Dutton, just misses the mark of success. The author is too much an artist, in the most aesthetic sense of the word, to draw her characters prosaically enough for the rest of us to believe them real. However, her skill in painting a background in which to place her puppets is remarkable, and her pictures of an English cathedral town, and the Central American volcano whose eruption gives the story a name leave a vivid and unforgettable impression.

Each century Oxford turns out a few persons who try to explain the politics and diplomatic theories of England—past, present and future. Charles Richard and Mary de Selincourt, whose combined ages are under the half-century mark, have written a comprehensive study of political progress titled "A History of Political Ideas," which will be published by Putnam in the fall.

Everyone at some time or other is pecking into some book to find himself a hobby, and half the time, saves himself time by taking up golf. "The Book of Hobbies," by Charles W. Tausig and Theodore A. Meyer to be published by Minton, Balch and Co., will solve many problems. Collecting in all its different aspects is treated in the work, and chapters on prints, china and porcelain, books, stamps, radio, angling, autographs, old furniture, and old playing cards are included.

Knut Hansson, author of "Children of the Age," has written a new novel, "Segelfoss Town," a sequel to the former, which will be published soon by Alfred Knopf. Bojer has described the author as "an impressionistic poet," who has transformed our language, whose secret lies not in the style or the monumental, but in the new word, the paradox, the spirit and captivating melody of his

NOTED WRITER OF LOVE TALES IS DEAD

Mary Stewart Cutting, 73, one of the few authors who kept her charming old-fashioned manner in the midst of this bolshevik era in literature, died at her home in Orange, N. J., last Sunday. Mrs. Cutting was born in 1859 in New York, and when a very young girl, wrote verses and little stories which were printed in Lippincott's magazine.

Among the stories that were most popular and, strangely enough, have kept their popularity, "Little Tales of Courtship" is perhaps the most charming. The humor in it is wiseful, and never bolsterous or rude. The author's care in description and story technique makes one stop and think about the slapstick methods sometimes detected in present day fiction. And the happy endings to most of Mrs. Cutting's love tales are very pleasant, as an antidote to the complicated complexes and love tragedies we are accustomed to read.

Mrs. Cutting has written for several magazines in recent years, among them being Ladies Home Journal and Woman's Home Companion. She has kept writing the little poems, begun when a girl, and they, as well as the stories, are as fresh, unmodern and simple in 1924 as they were in 1880.

phrase. Mr. Bojer calls Hansson the "mysterious Pan of our forests."

One thousand copies signed by the author are the prize editions of "Ornaments in Jade" by Arthur Machen and published by Knopf on July 18. The design is specially made by T. M. Cleland for this strictly limited edition.

No Monopoly in Oil

"I am told that the Standard Oil Company has practically all the refineries. Is this true?" a correspondent asks the Oil and Gas Journal.

Reply is made in issue of June 19, as follows: "It certainly is not. In the first place when you mention the Standard Oil Company you are speaking of several companies which, since the dissolution decree United States Supreme Court of 1911, are as separate in their ownership and control as any of the several thousand oil companies which operate in the United States.

"No company bearing the name of 'Standard' including its subsidiary organizations has more than 11 refineries in the United States. There are several of the so-called 'independent' companies which have from 5 to 9 refineries. According to the Oil and Gas Journal's compilation of May 1, there are 574 refineries in the United States of which 382 were operating on that date. Of this number only 39 belong to the several Standard Oil Companies and their subsidiary organizations. Thus you see that approximately only 1 out of 15 refineries belong to the Standard Companies."

The Standard Oil Companies loom much larger in the public mind than is warranted by the percentage of their refineries as compared with all other oil companies.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has but six refineries — Whiting, Indiana; Sugar Creek, Missouri; Wood River, Illinois; Casper, Wyoming; Greybull, Wyoming; and Laramie, Wyoming.

The oil industry of today is of such vast proportions as almost to defy figures. Perhaps that is why it appeals so strongly to the imagination.

As the oil industry is organized today, a monopoly in oil, whether crude or refined, is beyond possibility. The industry is too enormous for dictation by any one company or any group of companies. It is too big and too varied for "understandings". It is too big for anything but the keenest sort of competition, and for the winning and holding of business through service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is strictly a competitive organization of service. That it is able to compete profitably with other oil companies is due solely to its initiative in invention of new methods and processes, and to its superior organization for the refining and distribution of oil products. In both of these capacities it is rendering an essential service to the thirty million people of the Middle West in such a way as to have gained their respect, confidence and esteem.

CANFIELD, FERBER DIVIDE HONORS AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

"So Big" and "The Home Maker" in Greatest Demand Last Week

Edna Ferber and Dorothy Canfield are sharing honors this week at Appleton Public Library as the authors of the two books most in demand. "So Big" by Edna Ferber has been in great demand since it was put into circulation and Dorothy Canfield's book, "The Home Maker," has been interesting many people because of the subject the author has chosen to weave her plot about.

Other popular books last week were "The Avalanche" by Ernest Poole, "Adventures in Swaziland" by O. R. O'Neill and "Birds, Their Photographs and Home Life" by A. H. Corbier. All books of travel and nature are favored by patrons of the library.

Fiction and light reading are favored more in summer, many people taking library books with them on vacation trips. "A Good Story" is a frequent plea not only with big folks, but with the young people who make use of the children's department.

Free from textbooks and school during vacation months, the children care little for books that savor of the classroom, but ask for "stories." The books that were most popular in the department last week are "Jimmy, the Story of a Black Bear Cub," and "Polaris, An Eskimo Dog," by Baynes. Terrence's "Lad," a dog story, was circulated a great deal during the week.

Children still delight in reading about the adventures of King Arthur and like to follow the escapades of Robin Hood and his merry men, for the department reported that books about these two characters had been asked for by the little people. Most of the youngsters like fairy tales too.

Why "One-Shot" is Winning America!

EAST—west—north—south—in every state in the Union—the 1925 Cleveland Six is being seen—discussed—bought—and driven with delight!

A new car—with superbly beautiful bodies, increased power, and greater comfort, it offers as an exclusive feature the "One-Shot" Lubrication System.

Simplicity!

All America has been won by the convenience and simplicity of this new lubrication system that does away with the grimy, tedious task of greasing and oiling the car by hand. Think of owning and driving a car in which you can lubricate all vital parts simply by stepping on a plunger any time—and anywhere. That is one of the reasons why the 1925 Cleveland Six is taking the nation by storm. And another is the

A New Isham Jones' Record

Number 2648 75c

"Dog on the Piano" (Fox Trot)
"Mahsi" (Fox Trot)
Isham Jones' Orchestra

"Dog On The Piano" is our first selection on Isham Jones' Orchestra featuring Roy Barry who has recently joined as a regular member. Jones' aggregation of stars. Wherever dance records are played, the name of Roy Barry is well known as a leader of orchestras as well as for his piano solos. The selection of "Dog On The Piano" is a syncopated piano solo with full orchestra accompaniment. While the piano, under the skillful fingers of Barry, dominates the selection, the rest of the orchestra attains some of the best of all Jones' effects. For instance, we call your particular attention to the fast saxophone passages, which, along with the piano parts, will be attractive to every buyer of dance music. "Mahsi" is "Isham" spelled backwards and was written especially for Jones by Harry Alford. We know of no dance selection recorded by Jones that has as much flash. It is brilliant throughout, and the thousands of Jones' admirers will get a new idea of his capabilities when this record is demonstrated.

LETTER FROM ELLEN BLEDSOE TO SARAH HENDRICKS
MY DEAR SARAH:

I've had some regular cases since we graduated from the nurses' training school but I think the most peculiar as well as the pleasant one I have ever had, I am now nursing.

His name is Sydney Carton, and he got smashed up in an automobile accident and was brought in here about two weeks ago. It seems he's quite a man in this town, but at that, for a long time we could not find who or what he was. He had nothing on him that meant real identification until we telegraphed for a man named John Alden Prescott, whose card we found in the automobile.

Mr. Prescott came down immediately, and identified him, and then his friends began to flock in. For a long time he was in a comatose state.

Nobody could understand why he was driving out alone at that time of night. In fact, it looked as though he had gotten up, hurriedly dressed in some old clothing, and started out for a long, reckless drive in his motor.

His friend, Mr. Prescott, says he is not a drinking man, and he has had no money troubles—in fact he is quite wealthy—and he cannot understand what is the matter with him. Once in a while he speaks the name of "Jack," and again he will murmur the name of "Leslie." Mr. Prescott says that Leslie is the name of his wife, and that they were all great friends.

You can imagine how surprised I was, day before yesterday, when I found Mr. Carton looking at me with utterly sane eyes. He asked me if he had been delirious. I told him he had lain almost in a state of coma, and had only mentioned the words "Jack" and "Leslie" occasionally.

He gave me the same explanation of his using these names as did Mr. Prescott. I told him Mr. Prescott was here and explained to him how he had been found. He told me he didn't remember taking the car out at all; said he must have been walking in his sleep, and asked immediately to see his friend, Mr. Prescott.

I told him I did not think he was well enough to see his friend, and that he was liable, if he ran the least temperature, to become delirious. At this he seemed very much worried, and made me promise, if he showed the slightest indication of becoming delirious, I would not let any of his friends in to see him.

He made such an ado about it, that I solemnly told him that I would see that none of them, not even Mr. Prescott, should see him when he was not himself.

I think he worries so about the matter that he did not become delirious again, but two or three times he dozed off into a kind of half sleep, half waking condition, and then he would whisper the name "Leslie." He never mentioned his friend Jack again.

This morning, however, he seemed much better, and I think he will be taken to his apartment this afternoon. Here comes the doctor—will finish after he has gone.

Adventures Of The Twins

A MIX-UP
The next day Cutie Cottontail woke up bright and early. That was really one reason why he went to bed so early the night before.

And he got dressed in a hurry and, slipped on the trousers his mother had mended for him. But he never thought of looking in the pockets. If he had, he might have saved himself a whole lot of trouble later.

He wanted to show the lucky brass ring he had got on the merry-go-round at Happy Go Lucky Park to all of his friends.

Then after that he was going to the park and get his free ride, which the brass ring entitled him to.

You had to be pretty smart to get the brass ring. It stuck pretty hard and you had to pull like everything.

"I'll go and show Ben and Billy-Bunny first," he said. "They'll never believe me if I didn't show it to them. I'll—why, he's here, what's this?" he cried, picking something up from the front porch. "Why, it's my brass ring. How did it ever get out here? I must have dropped it when I was coming in last night. Lucky I found it before I got too far away."

So he put it into his pocket, not knowing that it was the very certain ring his mother had been looking for and which she had dropped when the postman came.

Away he went whistling to the Bunny's house.

Ben and Billy were just up.

"Lookie, what I got!" cried Cutie, holding up the brass ring.

"Let's see! What is it? Where'd you get it?" Gee Arent you lucky, though!" was what they said and Cutie was prouder than ever.

"Yes," he admitted. "It was pretty hard work but I got it just the same."

"Wish I wuz you," said Billy. "So do I," said Ben.

What more could any little boy want.

Next he went to show Corny and Cobby Coon.

"Turnum!" laughed fat Corny Coon who was sort of a clown.

"You haven't any rings on your tail like we have! That's a good way to get one."

"My goodness!" laughed Cutie. "I wish you'd tell me how to get a tail first!"

And they all laughed and laughed at that.

Cutie was quite a hero and he was getting prouder by the minute.

But they do say that pride goeth before a fall and I believe it's true.

Cutie met Mosey and Mud Turtle Junior next and Mosey was cross and sulky. That morning, Preside, he was jealous of Cutie because he could run so fast. He never could have gotten a brass ring in a thousand years and when Cutie held it up he was furious.

"Hub! A brass ring! Why, anybody can get a brass ring. I can go right this minute and get one off my mother's curtain pole. Look here, fellows, I bet you this brass ring is off Cutie's mother's curtain pole."

All Cutie's friends began to take sides then. Some said he did and some said he didn't.

Poor Cutie was in a dreadful way. "Nick and Mister Zip can tell you if I did or not," said Cutie. "Sure he did," said Nick when they got there. "I saw him get it myself. But this isn't it."

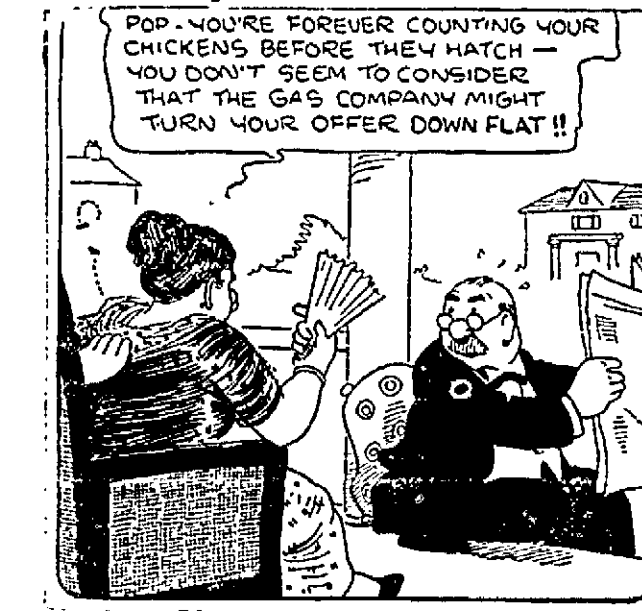

But when Mrs. Cottontail heard the story she laughed and laughed. "I'll show you where it is," she said. And there it was on her curtain pole!

Mosey Turtle wasn't so far from wrong after all!

Johnson Wins Shutout No. 106 From Indians In Only Major Contest

Senators' Pitching Ace Raises
His Alltime Strikeout Record to 3,180 and Cuts Catchers' Lead.

Primed for battle by 48 hours' rest accorded them by a conspiracy of schedule makers and rain makers, the western division of American league contenders will begin its last invasion of the east for the 1924 season Wednesday. St. Louis will take on New York, Chicago will meet Boston and Detroit will engage Philadelphia in double-headers, while Cleveland and Washington hook up in a single game.

The only contest scheduled for Wednesday afternoon in the national is that between New York and Pittsburgh at Pittsburgh.

The Indians and Senators managed to find a dry spot in the nation's capital in which to stage a ball game Tuesday while all the other major league players were forced by the inclement weather to seek recreation in indoor sports. Postponements of the Pirates-Phillies, White Sox-Red Sox, and Browns-Yankees tussles were occasioned by the general downpour along the Atlantic seaboard.

In shutting out Cleveland by 4 to 0, Walter Johnson registered his one hundred sixth whitewash and raised his alltime strikeout total to 3,180. Sir Walter graciously paroled out five hits to the hypnotized Speakerites. The victory cut the world's champions' lead over Washington to a game and a half. Umpire Owens, Rowland and Connolly inaugurated a new fashion in major league arbiters' dress when they appeared in olive drab uniforms. This apparel henceforth will be the regulation costume for Ban Johnson radiators.

BAKERS BOW TO SHOEMEN, 22 TO 6

Twilight baseball daily is growing more popular here and there is hardly a profession or trade in the city which is not represented. One of the most recent teams entered the race is the Singlers Bakers, who early this week met the Retail Foot Fitters of the City Twilight league, and bowed to the latter, 22 to 6. The Bakers played a good game considering it was their first, while the Shoemen have been playing for several weeks, and promise to give any other local club a good fight when they get started. Their fielding was weak from lack of practice, and a flock of errors kept the pitcher in hot water most of the time. He was hit heavily also, but experience will remedy that weakness after several contests have been played.

The score by innings:
Shoemen 5 4 0 4 0 0—22
Bakers 3 0 0 0 0 3—6

Mickey Plans. To Wear Benny Out On Aug. 20

New York—Mickey Walker is firmly convinced he will knock out Benny Leonard at the Yankee stadium on Aug. 20. This much he evidenced in a confab with a member of the Universal sport staff at Johnny Collins' farm at Summit, N. J., on Tuesday, after a strenuous day's work in the ring. Mickey, in his statement cites a few interesting points.

"The boys seem to have overlooked one thing," said Mickey, "in considering my fight with Leonard. I have the greatest of confidence in my ability to win from Leonard by a knockout for the reason, that I believe he is not the fighter against heavier men he is against men around his own weight. The few men Leonard has me in the welterweight class have always given him trouble.

"Take, for instance, his fight with Jack Britton. Up to the time the bout was called to a halt and the decision given to Britton on a foul it was apparent that Jack was more than holding his own. It was while viewing that fight that I drew the conclusion that Leonard against heavier men isn't the same Leonard against the contenders for his lightweight title.

"I hope to wear Leonard down with body punches."

Copy Boy!

TOMMY DARLINGTON

Who is it that's never around when you want him?

The copy boy.

Any grumpy old editor can tell you that.

And where is the little pest?

Out on the golf links, usually, kicking the shurts off the rest of the field.

At least that's where Tommy Darlington, copy boy for the Chicago Evening Post, was the other day when the newspaper men of that city held their annual tournament.

And all Tommy did was to turn in the low test score of the day, shooting a 91, which with his handicap of 25, gave him a winning total of 66.

SUSPEND FLETCHER FOR FIGHT WITH ARBITERS

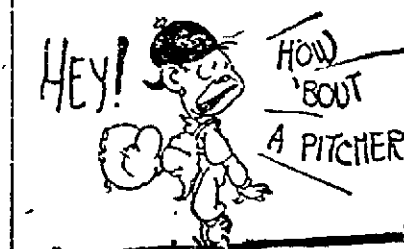

New York—President Heydler of the National league Tuesday announced that he had indefinitely suspended and placed a fine of $100 on Arthur Fletcher, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals, as a result of the latter's row with Umpire Egan in the game with Pittsburgh at Philadelphia Monday.

Charleston, S. C.—Young Strubling, Macon, Ga., knocked out Leo Leonard of Wilkesbarre Pa. in the third round of a scheduled 12-round bout.

Nights Of Piteous Beat Bobbars In Pitchers Dool

Mickey Has Trouble Keeping
Score Because He Forgot His Adding Machine, But Makes
It 20 to 6.

Dis here now guy, de sport ed., he's often dem twilight games like de Prince of Whales is often his nags 'cause dese dumb heads wat plays shi all het up an' blocks his view to holler from de side lines. Dat gives me a job scoring for de old boy. Las' night 'dis was a pitchers dool bee here Bobbers. Dey used jest about as many pitchers as odder guys on de teams an' me wid de score book. I nickerd out a big bloke to keep de side lines clear but de poor boob stands right in front of me to do it so I couldn't see much anyways. Foller me I didn't have no adding machine.

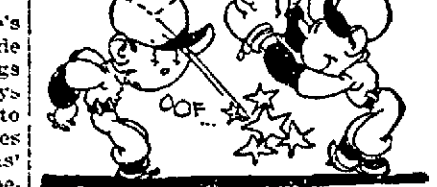

so I give dese Piteous guys oney 20 runs an' de Bobbers 6.

W'en de slaughter was ready to commence a bird name of Manning he started to pitch for de Bobbers, but dese guys had about 15 men in de field an' de Nights protested, so dey took out de pitcher an' called for anudder one.

Well dey finly got goin' at last an' dese here Pitvans copped five runs before de Razzooers woke up. De Bob-bars collected one off'n a hit an' a wild throw in de foist an' copped a couple more on a 'tree bagger, a single an' a error in de thoid, but dese here Nights jest walked all over 'em until dey was tired out from runnin' bases. One time dey guy dey calls Dutch Sylvester he's talon' a big lead off foist an' de second baseman heaves de ol' pill toward foist but catches Dutch a belt on his head. Liz Blackbourne, de umps, he's deaf' on dis here Interferin' wit' de ball an' he calls Dutch out.

W'en de dust settled after de fitt' de Pitvans had clinched 9 runs mostly offen errors by de Bobber fielders. Dese holds stood out in de garden waitin' for de pill to fall in dere mitts, an' w'en she came near 'em dey run like—'you tell 'em—'an' den they was too polite to risk bumpin' each odder so dey jest let 'em fall on de ground. Well, w'en dey got trough seven innings it was purty dark an' de Pitvans Nights was all in from dis here maraton stuff, so dey called it plenty with de score 20 to 6, an' de Nights all happy.

BAIT CASTING

After the bait tresser has handled successfully the smaller game, fins such as black bass, pike, pickerel, etc., his one ambition is to "hook up" with a large "tiger of the fresh waters" known as the muskellunge.

Musky fishing is a fascinating game and it is the desire of every bait tresser to land a big one that is, one that will tip the beam around 25 to 40 pounds. But muskies of this size are pretiv scarce and undoubtedly before the bait tresser ends his trip he will have to be satisfied with one weighing much less than he had pictured to himself, for the big fellows do not grow in every patch of weeds nor around old sunken logs or stumps in the muskie waters. They do not travel in groups either as do some of the smaller game fins, but are what one would call "lone hunters."

As a trickster the musky cannot be beat by any fin that inhabits the fresh waters and he is especially very active when it comes to going after a feed. He will hide behind some sunken log, or you might find him lying under a patch of weeds and inactive, but let him spot some toothsome young aquatic mammal and he is like a streak of lightning and usually lands his victim. Nothing in the line of food gets by the old scrapper even though it be a waterfowl, if he desires a feed of this sort.

He is a lone hunter and usually has an established area which is his lair or favorite loafing place and he usually is well qualified to take care of the area which he selects.

One should study the musky before attempting to land one as a knowledge of the big fellow is absolutely essential in order to be successful. Look for the bait, weedy places and look over the lake thoroughly before attempting to fish it or better still, save time on a short trip, hire a competent guide that knows every inch of the waters and has the musky holes spotted.

ROTARY AND KIWANIS LOCK HORNS THURSDAY

Rotary and Kiwanis lock horns Thursday for the second time in the Lark league, and the Rotarians are determined to wipe out their 12 to 4 defeat in the previous contest. The two teams were down on the program for an contest on July 24, but this game was postponed because of wet grounds and will be played off at a later date.

MARKSMEN PRACTICE FOR LABOR DAY SHOOT HERE

Marksmen of Appleton and the vicinity Saturday will stage a practice shoot at the grounds of the Appleton Angling and Shooting club in preparation for the big registered event scheduled for Labor day by the club. The practice shoot is due to start at 2 P. M. and all those planning to enter the Labor day event are invited to attend, as well as those who wish to shoot merely for their own amusement.

GOOZEMAN SIGNED TO REVIVE MADISON BOXING

Milwaukee—An attempt to revive the boxing game at Madison is to be made Tuesday night, Aug. 19, when Ernie Gozeman and Joey Klein battle in the windup of a card just arranged—and Jack Monahan takes on Lou Rollinger, Waterloo, Ia., scrapper. In all, thirty-two rounds of boxing have been carded.

WOMAN CHAMP ON MANITOWOC CARD

Virginia Mercereau Meets Joe
Burley in Headline of V. of
F. W. Mat Program

Virginia Mercereau who recently met Matty Matsuda, Japanese mat star here, is scheduled to wrestle Joe Burley, middleweight champion of the world in the headline of the Labor day card planned for Manitowoc under the auspices of the Veterans of Foreign wars.

Miss Mercereau, better known here as Marie Dedrich, Saturday made a fine showing with Frank Martin at Sturgeon Bay where she held her own in the 15 minute handicap match for the $150 posted by the Police Gazette and thereafter carried on for 31 minutes and 10 seconds. Martin the welterweight champion of the state, threw her in two straight falls in that time, using armlocks and toe-holds for the most part. Miss Mercereau depends chiefly on the lift crotch and headlock and gave the champion a hard tussle.

More than 700 fans watched the match. Most of these were tourists. The local fans were kept away by their work or repairing damage done by heavy storms which swept that part of the state recently.

Do you know Baseball? by Billy Evans

QUESTIONS

1. First and second base are occupied. Batter hits an infield fly and is immediately declared out by the umpire.

The pitcher fields the ball half way between the pitcher's box and first base. He drops the fly ball which the umpire has ruled an infield fly.

2. The runners start to advance when the ball is dropped by the pitcher. On recovering ball the pitcher throws wild to third and both runners score. The umpire sends runners back to the original bases. Has that the correct ruling? A. L. P.

3. With a runner on first the batter hits a high fly which the catcher drops. It is a fair ball. The catcher throws the ball to the first baseman who touches the bag, retiring the runner, who failed to run out his hit.

In the meantime the runner on first manager to slide back into that base without being touched. He first started for second after the ball had been dropped, and seeing the throw to that base had him beaten, returned to first.

Can a runner on first return to that base after the batter has been retired?—G. H. S.

ANSWERS

1 Umpire erred. The ball is always in play on an infield fly. Base runners can advance at their peril as on any other fly ball that is dropped. Both runs counted.

2 When batsman is retired the force is automatically removed. Runner seeing he cannot reach second has a perfect right to return to first if he can get back there in safety.

NOTRE DAME GETS NEW MATERIAL ON GRIDIRON

St. Paul—Two football stars at St. Thomas college here, will enter Notre Dame this fall. They are George Conroy, end on the cadet eleven for the last three years, and Bill Nolan, guard and tackle. Conroy also played on the St. Thomas hockey team as well as with the St. Paul Athletic club team of the United States Amateur Hockey league.

New York—Mickey Walker, world welterweight champion, returned to the New York State Athletic commission his signed agreement to box Dave Shade of California in a title match before Jan. 1, 1925.

An Eye For Business—
Means just about the same thing as an eye for Business Opportunities.

And developing that isn't a question of developing a sixth sense which shall be able to detect the business possibilities of a proposition by the density of the surrounding atmosphere.

An eye for Business Opportunities is an eye that habitually glances at the A-B-C Classified Section of the Post-Crescent—where all the worth-while opportunities of Appleton are assembled and listed alphabetically for quick finding.

If you want to develop an eye for business, read the classified ads daily—and pay particular attention to those under the "Business Opportunities" Classification.

There's no better way of developing a mind worthy of your business and a business worthy of your mind!

BRITAIN SENDS SHIPS TO QUELL SUDAN RIOTS

By Associated Press
London.—In connection with the trouble in the Sudan, the Admiralty has ordered the battleship Marlborough to leave Zanzibar, Dalmatia, for Alexandria. The light cruiser Veymouth, enroute for Colombo, Ceylon, was ordered to Port Sudan, where she arrived Tuesday and the sloop Cleopatra is on her way for the same port.

Cairo, Egypt.—A demonstration took place Wednesday afternoon in the Ezbekiya gardens in sympathy with the recent disturbance at Atbara. Complete calm now prevails throughout the Sudan.

BLAINE SAYS HE FAVORS GAS TAX

have the gasoline tax collect the toll from the retailer. The method is laborious and requires a great deal of clerical help for administration purposes at the capitol in Madison. Some of the work involved can be gained from the fact that there are 10,000 gas retailers in the state, the speaker pointed out.

USE MONEY AS CLUB

Another bad feature of the bill, as he saw it, was the unfair distribution of the bill, for 75 per cent of the tax revenue, or about $3,000,000, would be used for state highway purposes. This would be no saving in the general property tax, he maintained, for the highway department would yield the $3,000,000 revenue as a club over county boards to compel them to raise an equal amount to meet state aid for road improvement. The governor said he favors a bill distributing the revenue equally to the state, the counties and the municipalities.

"The disbursements out of the state treasury for highway department," he said, "flaying the highway department for extravagance, 'alone' increased from 1919 to 1922 over $9,000,000. This increase accounts for nearly every dollar of increased expenditures out of the state treasury. The expenditures for highways and bridges by the state and all its political subdivisions increased from 1920 to 1923 over $4,000,000."

"These increases in expenditures have been on a large extent due to the fact that the highway department has power under the law to force highway construction. The department has power to levy taxes for highway improvement. It is the only state organization in Wisconsin that has power to levy taxes. This power to levy taxes rests in actual administration in the highway engineering."

TAKE AWAY TAX POWER

"I favor taking away from the highway department all power to levy taxes, and all power to force highway construction. I favor home rule for counties and communities in all these undertakings. The highway burdens have been the greatest burdens the state has had to bear."

Besides recounting a long list of accomplishments of his administration and setting forth a large number of his plans, the governor took a snap judgment at "mobilization day," which is to be held in September and with which the governor has already refused to cooperate.

"Wisconsin needs no public demonstration to attest the loyalty or patriotism of her people," he declared.

DON'T NEED LESSON

"Wisconsin has always met every obligation in every public emergency. Wisconsin, the state that 44,000 men to the Civil War and 124,314 men to the World War, needs no patriotic lesson. Wisconsin's military history recalls the major components of the Iron Brigade and those of the Thirty-second division. It recalls the fact that in no war during its history has Wisconsin failed to answer the call for national defense or known within its own boundaries industrial or military disasters."

In further illustrating that Wisconsin has always cared for her own he mentioned that it was the first state to grant a soldiers' bonus. He also mentioned the soldiers' hospital for treatment of men disabled in the war. He pointed out that the state fund to provide treatment of those soldiers who were unable to receive it through the Veterans' bureau or the federal government. The fund amounts to $1,400,000 invested in securities the interest of which is used for hospitalization.

Chicago Woman Paid $25,000 A Year For "Bossing" 3,000 Men

Chicago.—The highest salaried business woman in Chicago—and one of the highest paid in the world—is Mrs. C. H. Boyer.

As superintendent of agents for the United States National Life Insurance company, she gives orders to more men than any other woman in the country.

For 30 years Mrs. Boyer has been "bossing" from 1000 to 3000 accident insurance agents.

With her husband, C. H. Boyer, she has built up and directed two large accident insurance companies, at all times having complete charge of the field force of agents, determining their policies and sales methods.

SIDE BY SIDE

Thirty years ago in Philadelphia she decided to enter business with her husband. Since that day she has worked side by side with him in his office with the exception of a few months when she remained at home to bring two children into the world and rear them through the first weeks of their infancy.

The first company of the Boyers was the General Accident Fire and Life Assurance Corporation with which she remained 17 years until Albert M. Johnson, millionaire president of the National Life Insurance Company of the U. S. A. persuaded the Boyers to come to Chicago, 13 years ago and launch an accident insurance department of his company.

Beginning at the bottom she and her husband, who is vice president and general manager of the company, built up the accident branch of the National until last year it was made an independent corporation.

GETS $25,000
Mrs. Boyer gets $25,000 a year. According to Mr. Johnson she is the highest salaried woman in Chicago, probably in the whole country, and has unquestionably directed the business activities of more men than any other woman in American history.

"Men do not object to working for a woman or to taking orders from them so long as the orders are given quietly and straight forwardly," says Mrs. Boyer. "They never complain about their wives so long as the women folk keep the house running smoothly, efficiently and comfortably."

"I try to keep the business affairs of my department in just that shape. Men can find out what they want to know quickly and without fuss in my office. When I send out orders they are put simply and clearly. Men have never objected to me on the grounds of my sex. They have been uniformly courteous."

"I believe any woman has plenty of time to work eight hours in any office if she will order her home life and the housework."

MENU CARD TELLS VISITORS ABOUT BADGER WEALTH

Greater Association Banquet Will Consist of Wisconsin Products

The menu card of the luncheon to be given those attending the organization meeting of the Greater Wisconsin Association at Conway hotel Thursday, Aug. 14, will contain a great deal of valuable information concerning the amount and value of the various products raised in Wisconsin which is being compiled by Hugh G. Corbett, managing secretary of the chamber of commerce. The luncheon itself is to consist almost exclusively of products raised in Wisconsin.

The card will show that 339,573 people are engaged in industries in Wisconsin, while 307,535 are engaged in agriculture. The industries add $780,000,000 to the value of the materials they handle and agriculture adds $720,000,000 to the products it works upon.

There are 2,763,452 dairy cattle in the state, valued at $193,033,349. The products of these cows is represented as worth $180,866,449. The card will include considerable other information.

Letters will be coming in to the chamber of commerce from many of the larger cities of the state saying they will be represented at the meeting. The largest delegations are expected from Milwaukee and Madison. Arrangements for the meeting are practically completed.

TRIM TREE BRANCHES ORDER FROM COUNCIL

Overhanging branches of trees on streets have caused so much annoyance to pedestrians and motorists that the city council has issued a notice calling upon all property owners to keep walks and streets clear of these obstructions. There was a time when trimming of trees was done by the street department, but hereafter the owners of the abutting properties will be held responsible. Notice has been issued by the council that in any case where the parkway trees are not kept in trim, the work will be done by the city and the expense charged against the owner in his taxes.

Chicago Expert Commends Forest-Co On Its Roads

Fred Rogers, formerly of Appleton and until recently highway commissioner of Forest-co, is credited by the "Motordom Today" section of the Chicago Tribune as one of the pioneers in the movement to conserve the natural resources and scenic beauties of the Land O'Lakes region and as one responsible for a large part of the successful highway program of that country.

The article calls attention to the network of velvet smooth gravel and graded roads that give access to every nook and corner of the wonderful district and east stretches of pine and hardwood timber land and also connect with all the heavily traveled trails of the northwest.

"Both state and county roads are maintained to perfection," it is pointed out, "while a consistent extension program drives new trails farther and farther into virgin country" each year. Rogers' organization has marked and posted all streams and points of historical scenic interest along state and county roads and has promoted tree culture and forest conservation to the perfection point.

"Several years ago Forest-co led the state in the Tribune campaign for the planting of memorial trees along main highways and went one step farther in honoring the men who served in the World war and dedicating its feature scenic trail, the Poppy Highway, to its soldiers. The community turned out and planted poppy seed all along the right-of-way which strikes due north from Crandon and Argonne to the state line and Iron River.

"This road, trunk highway 55, is probably the most picturesque through route from the Appleton gateway to the resort country with the exception of 14 miles of construction work between Keshena and Langlade which is due to open before Aug. 15. Of the county's score of resorts and summer camps, Lake Metonga camp on Sand lake at the edge of Crandon is credited as one of the finest resort developments in northern Wisconsin.

BUILDING PERMITS

Authorization of construction of a new residence was made Tuesday with the issuance of several building permits. The three permits for the day were as follows:

Max Koehnigeder, 1070 Lorain-st, garage.
Mrs. H. Vanderlinden, 617 Maple-st, addition to residence.
Otto Grunst, 626 Randall-st, residence.

Airplane passengers numbered 28,801 during 1923.

ON THE SCREEN

THE GIRL IN THE LIMOUSINE

"The Girl in the Limousine" at the Elite Theater is built for people who like to laugh and people who enjoy being thrilled. It is difficult to state whether the picture contains more thrills than laughs, or vice versa, but certainly it has a superabundance of both. It tells the story of a bashful youth who is unable to tell a girl of his love, and as a result she marries another. Disconsolate, he wanders out and is trapped by crooks, who leave him in the girl's home, attired in a woman's pajamas. From then on the complications come thick and fast and only end after one of the most remarkable chase scenes that the camera has ever caught.

Larry Semon, most versatile and most daring of all screen comedians, plays the stellar role. Semon has heretofore been seen only in two reel comedies, but in this picture of feature length he proves his ability to keep an audience enthralled and amused for every minute of the hour and a quarter that the picture shows. Charles Murray, another veteran comedian, contributes some excellent comedy as the butler and Claire Adams is a beautiful and charming heroine.

SEVEN NOTABLE PLAYERS FORM NOTABLE CAST

"The Marriage Chance," on view at the New Bijou Theater today and Thursday is an astonishing picture. And astonishing may be too weak a word to describe it properly. At any rate, it is utterly unlike any story ever told on the screen. Written and produced by Hampton Del Ruth, veteran of his craft, it bespeaks a hand practiced in concocting laughter, thrills, horrors and surprise such as most people like to see. Only no one has ever seen the like of "The Marriage Chance."

The cast is equally exceptional, including, as it does, Alta Allen, Milton Sills, Henry B. Walthall, Tully Marshall, Irene Rich, Mitchell Lewis, Laura La Plante and Nick Cogle. Truly a roster of names capable of adding credit to any picture. Needless to say the new picture is admirably acted.

Concert at Kimberly

The Kimberly band will give a band concert at 7:30 Thursday evening in Kimberly Park. An exceptionally good program has been arranged.

HEALTHY BALANCE IN COUNTY FUNDS AS AUGUST STARTS

Overdrafts in Few Funds Await Refund from State Departments

Although a half year of administration of county affairs has passed, the various funds still show a healthy balance. It is seen from the quarterly financial report of John U. Hirschel, county clerk.

Not including future taxes to be levied in payment of bonded indebtedness, financial assets of the county on July 1 amounted to $413,460.10, while current liabilities totaled $55,228,472.50. The total bonded indebtedness on that date amounted to $981,125.14. The actual cash assets were $310,749.54, while $42,725.55 were due the county in accounts receivable and $22,955.01 was invested in tax certificates.

Fund balances for all departments aggregated $413,460.12. All funds showed substantial balances, except the training school, school supervision, state patrol and county-state road and bridge funds, which have overdrafts. But in each case the overdraft is due to advance of county money in anticipation of state aid funds. In the case of the county-state road and bridge fund, funds due from the state for purchases of right-of-way and from districts for machinery rental more than offset the overdraft.

$75,225.33 GENERAL FUND
The general fund balance from which salaries and general county expenses are paid totaled $75,225.33, while highway funds aggregated $109,693.23, and miscellaneous funds $228,472.50.

Highway fund balances were as follows: County and town aid, $2,555.70; bridge fund, $3,568.71; snow removal, $41.83; construction, $34,738.33; garage, $519.09; county patrol, $23,579.54; emergency bridge, $3,430.88. The overdraft in the state patrol fund was $18,410.33, and that of the county-state road and bridge fund was $390.93.

Following are the standings of the various miscellaneous funds: Asylum, $14,943.47; sanatorium, $19,519.11; superintendent of schools, $3,063.18; school library, $1,043.07; teachers' institute, $21.89; county nurse, $1,825.08; soldiers' relief, $1,044.47; blind pension, $5,208.80; tax redemption, $4,705.76; highway bonds and interest, $108,516.38; soldiers' bonus bonds and interest, $8,837.52; emergency fund, $233.42; dog fund, $3,078.53; county agent, $1,981.07; fairs and association, $4,550.69; mothers' pension, $23,050.62. The training school fund showed an overdraft of $2,749.43, and the supervision of school fund an overdraft of $5,010.32.

Alex All Thru As Guide For Berry Pickers

Alex McAllister, a familiar character among hunters of yesterday, will render no more service as a hunting guide, for he no longer knows how to follow a trail himself. When the country was wild, no forest was thick enough to make him lose his way, but civilization has beaten him.

Although living at Crandon, in the very heart of the blueberry country, he wandered down to Appleton to pluck the berries. That was his purpose, he explained it to Thomas Flanagan, superintendent of the county asylum, Saturday. The man was found near Dale where, he slept the entire rainy night on a pile of plank.

Mr. Flanagan was looking for an escaped inmate, but when found old Alex McAllister telling about his blueberry trip, he turned him over to Sheriff Otto H. Zuehlke to be sent back to his home. The man is an aged bachelor and lived in Appleton about 20 years ago, when he and a brother used to serve as hunting guides. He remembered a few of his old cronies here.
